World NGO Day: Statement by High Representative/Vice-President Josep Borrell

Brussels, 26/02/2021 - 14:03, UNIQUE ID: 210226_6

Statement by The HR/VP

Around the world, NGOs, civil society and human rights defenders protect and promote human rights, democracy, as well as sustainable and inclusive development every day. They often do this unnoticed, far from the limelight and, at times, at great personal risk.

On World NGO Day, we pay tribute to their engagement, the impact of which should not be underestimated or taken for granted.

Over the last year, some governments have used the COVID-19 pandemic as a convenient excuse to crackdown on human rights and democracy. We know that the socio-economic consequences of the global health crisis will be unbalanced and long lasting, and that inequalities and social exclusion will continue to increase worldwide.

NGOs around the world have been playing a fundamental role in responding to the coronavirus crisis. They are documenting human rights violations, providing direct health services to communities or ensuring social assistance to the most vulnerable. We should not forget that NGOs are key partners of authorities in the assessment, design and implementation of responses to the pandemic.

However, NGOs worldwide are operating in a shrinking or even closing space. Civil society organisations face growing constraints ranging from burdensome reporting and registration requirements to restrictions on foreign funding, while NGO workers face physical threats, harassment and even killings.

Restrictions and attacks against NGOs are unacceptable. We do not only condemn this, we are also protecting those at risk and promoting an enabling environment for civil society. In the past 6 years, the EU has provided financial support to some 45,000 human rights defenders through the Protect Defenders Mechanism. This support will continue.

The EU is the leading worldwide donor for local CSOs in partner countries, with an annual budget of €2 billion. This partnership will be reinforced by the new Neighbourhood, Development and International Cooperation Instrument (NDICI).

In the past COVID-19 world, NGOs are the lymphath of “living together”. They will remain an essential partner in our efforts to build back better, to protect the rights of everyone and everywhere, leaving no one behind.

Languages:

Editorial Sections:

Author

You might be interested in

World Population Day – Sexual and reproductive health and rights must be ensured to all

Global efforts to tackle the pandemic continue, as the world population continues to rise with unequal access to healthcare. On World Population Day, let’s raise awareness of the importance of sexual and reproductive health and rights around the world and how we protect and empower present and future generations.

Climate change: the EU is ready to assume its global responsibility

12/08/2021 - HR/VP Blog - Climate change: EU’s commitment to climate neutrality by 2050 is irreversible.

Statement by Commissioner for Crisis Management Janez Lenarčič on the International Day to Protect Education from Attack

Today we celebrate the International Day to Protect Education from Attack. The EU reaffirms its commitment to promote and protect the right of every child to grow in a safe environment, have access to quality education, and build a better and more peaceful future.

Rebuilding stronger and more democratic societies

On the occasion of the International Day to Protect Education from Attack, the EU reaffirms its commitment to promote and protect the right of every child to grow in a safe environment, have access to quality education, and build a better and more peaceful future.

Media advisory - Foreign Affairs Council of 18 October 2021

SEE ALL

Press and media